Amanda Manahan (left), the Oberlin Heritage Center's Museum Education and Tour Coordinator, presents an illustrated program on Oberlin's varied blend of industries dating back to its founding in the early 19th century. From sawmills to silk manufacturing to education, this program explores the ins and outs of early American Industries and our own community's production of goods and services over the past two centuries. This community program takes place at Kendal at Oberlin's Heiser Auditorium (600 Kendal Drive) and is free and open to the public. The Northern Ohio Telephone Company Picket of 1963

New History Feature Added to Heritage Center Website

Picket sign detail from a photograph published in the Oberlin News Tribune, October 10, 1963

This month marks the 55th year since community residents and college students picketed the Northern Ohio Telephone Company's Oberlin office. The event, which happened on October 5, 1963, was the end result of months of ignored requests from the local Citizens Improvement Committee and NAACP to meet with company officials about their hiring practices. At the time, there only were two African Americans among the company's nine hundred employees. This past summer, Cleveland State University student volunteer Alex Shaver wrote about this effort. Read OHC's new history feature at www.oberlinheritagecenter.org (go to the Research and Learn tab in the main menu, scroll down to "History Features," then scroll to "20th Century Oberlin History.") If you have memories or items related to this or similar events, we're interested! Call us at (440) 774-1700 or e-mail history@oberlinheritage.org.

OHC End-of-Year Campaign Underway

Goal is $44,300 by December 31

It's time for the Heritage Center's year-end campaign for annual operating support. While memberships, tour fees, and fee-for-service projects help pay the bills, they do not fully cover the basic costs of operations. The Annual Fund is a planned once-a-year appeal to aid in filling the gaps and keeping the organization healthy and strong. Last year, the Heritage Center shared history with nearly 4,000 program and event guests, 2,800 tour visitors, and 24,000 website questers. Your gift today is needed and appreciated and will go far in continuing the work of connecting people with Oberlin history in many different ways. Make your gift today at www.oberlinheritagecenter.org and click on the "Make a Gift" button at the top of the home page.

OHC Staff, Intern and Volunteer News

The Heritage Center staff always looks forward to autumn and the arrival of a bright, energetic, and hard-working student intern team to assist with leading tours, doing research, and helping with a myriad of special projects. This year's group includes Malachi Clemons (OC '21), a Bonner Scholar and double major in Psychology and Law who hails from Princeton, NJ; Julia Cooke (OC '19) from Berkeley, CA, a double major in English and Environmental Studies; Colby Fortin (OC '22) of Peru, NY, who plans to major in Comparative American Studies and Politics; Logan McDermott-Mostowy (OC '22) of Washington, DC, who is exploring options for her future major; and Joshua Rhodes (OC '20), a double bass Conservatory student, who transferred this year to Oberlin from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. All of the interns are new to OHC except Malachi, who returns for his second year at the Heritage Center. We also welcome back high school intern Ruby Denneen for her second year at OHC. Ruby, a member of the Oberlin High School class of 2019, finds time to volunteer weekly while taking all her classes this year at Oberlin College and Lorain County Community College.

A warm welcome also goes to Riley Thomas, the newest AmeriCorps/Ohio History Corps member based at the Oberlin Heritage Center. Heritage Center staff members are busy expanding their history know-how in a number of professional development experiences: Mary Anne Cunningham, Maren McKee and Liz Schultz will attend the Ohio Local History Alliance's annual conference in Columbus this month. They will participate in sessions on building community partnerships, engaging youth membership in historic sites, collections care, fundraising, holiday programming and much more.

Maren McKee recently attended a planning workshop on the Suffrage Centennial, which was hosted by the Ohio History Connection and the League of Women Voters of Ohio at the National First Ladies Library in Canton. Stay tuned for more on this statewide collaboration that will highlight the centennial of the 19th amendment.

Amanda Manahan presented lessons on the Underground Railroad to area schoolchildren at the Pioneer Craftsmen Experience held last month at the Mill Hollow / Vermilion River Reservation and hosted by the Lorain County Metro Parks. The two-day event is offered annually to introduce area students to many aspects of 19th century Lorain County history.

Thank you to volunteers who are making the Heritage Center a better place in many ways: Scott Broadwell for cleaning and adding a protective coating to the beautiful front doors of the Monroe House and Jewett House; Sid Comings for keeping the walkways free of black walnuts that rain down upon the OHC grounds this time of year; Angela Cecil, Melissa Clifford,

Linda Gates, and Nancy Harper who are helping to cover the front desk reception spot throughout the week; and members of the Oberlin College Track Team who spruced up the Heritage Center grounds on the first day of autumn as a community service project.

Congratulations to the Heritage Center's former AmeriCorps member Mary Manning who is taking on more responsibilities at the Western Reserve Historical Society as the organization's new College and Career Readiness Specialist. In that position, Mary serves as Region 3 Ohio

Robert Venturi, one of the major architectural figures of the twentieth century, died last month in his native Philadelphia at the age of 93. The 1991 recipient of the Pritzker Prize, at times referred to as the "architect's Nobel Prize," created a vast body of work that included numerous private residences, college buildings, and public spaces. Notable among his designs are the Seattle Art Museum, an addition to The National Gallery, London and a 1977 addition to Oberlin College's Allen Memorial Art Museum which he designed in partnership with his wife and business colleague, Denise Scott Brown.
