Building a strong and sustainable future for the Oberlin Heritage Center was a major theme for the organization in 2010. A Strategic Planning Committee comprised of Board and staff, with input from a diverse group of members and friends of the organization, worked diligently for eight months to develop a thoughtfully drawn “roadmap” for the next five years. Board Treasurer and past President Cathe Radabaugh chaired the committee, while Dr. J.D. Britton, the former head of the Ohio Historical Society’s Local History Office, served as planning consultant. Britton is well-known by many Oberlin Heritage Center members and friends, as he played a similar role in the organization’s previous strategic plans adopted in 2005, 2002, 2000, and 1998. His skill, wit, and good cheer and his extensive familiarity with our organization and with the world of historical societies and museums added immeasurably to the process and to the carefully crafted end result.

The new five-year strategic plan was adopted by the Board of Trustees on November 3, 2010. It included six overarching goals, with accompanying objectives, action steps, time frames and implementation responsibilities, addressing changes in the site, facilities challenges, collections preservation, strategic Julia Monroe’s Anglo Japanese Parlor Returns to Monroe House and Peter Pindar Pease Returns to Oberlin!

In the mid-1880s Julia Finney Monroe (1837-1930), the “First Lady of Oberlin,” who had recently returned from 10 years in the nation’s capital, redecorated her formal front parlor in keeping with the tastes at the height of fashion and in her signature color, blue. Without photos of the very private Julia’s home at the time she lived there, recreating the ambiance of her inner sanctum in the Monroe House of the Oberlin Heritage Center required much sleuthing. Julia’s purchases were documented in receipts from merchants and suppliers with the details of color and texture told in family memories.

The Oberlin Heritage Center’s Collections Committee volunteers and staff planned to refurbish the parlor in stages, in keeping with extensive research on Julia’s tastes. The first phase of the project included removing inappropriate 1960s shag carpeting and wallpaper. Early in 2010, the parlor walls displayed a beautiful new color of paint and the installation of reproduction 1880s aesthetic movement wallpaper frieze and borders, a “bamboo” picture rail, and a locally designed and crafted wood chair rail.

The MISSION OF THE OBERLIN HERITAGE CENTER IS TO PRESERVE AND SHARE OBERLIN’S UNIQUE HERITAGE AND TO MAKE OUR COMMUNITY A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE, LEARN, WORK AND VISIT.

history education programming and management structure. The plan acknowledged that the organization was stretched very thin financially and needed to focus on “living within our means” while building a firmer financial foundation to support staff capacity and develop the potential and effectiveness of the organization. To this end, the plan outlined an ambitious goal to complete the Heritage Center’s Endowment for History Education fundraising campaign. It also calls for initiating a planned giving program to encourage other creative ways of giving to make the Heritage Center more sustainable and to eventually increase its operating budget. Copies of the Strategic Plan are available upon request.

The Heritage Center also undertook an American Association of Museums Public Dimension Assessment in 2010 and input from it also helped to shape the strategic plan. Heritage Center Museum Education and Tour Coordinator Elizabeth (“Liz”) Schultz was the project manager for this process which involved conducting a systematic examination of the Heritage Center’s education programs, public perceptions, public relations and marketing. It also entailed gathering additional feedback and suggestions from an array of area educators, representatives of cultural organizations, parents, and program participants. Museum education specialist Maureen Otwell who formerly worked for the Minnesota Historical Society and is now a Wisconsin-based consultant was the peer reviewer for this engaging process. Her written report provided valuable guidance both for the Strategic Plan and for future development of an Education Plan for the Heritage Center. She stated in her report that:

The Oberlin Heritage Center is a model for any history organization, large or small, and an example of what standards of excellence mean in the museum program and how they are achievable.

Solid planning in recent years also led to a major milestone in 2010 when the Oberlin Heritage Center purchased the building and property at 82 South Main Street in downtown Oberlin, adjacent to the Heritage Center’s grounds. This property was leased to the Mandarin Restaurant, Lupita’s Restaurant and The Bridge computer center, and all were assured following the real estate transaction that the Heritage Center wished them to remain. The property had long been identified as being of great strategic importance to the Heritage Center. Without it, the Heritage Center was virtually “landlocked.” The new acquisition now provides direct access from Vine Street to the Oberlin Heritage Center’s parking area, and a stronger connection between the Heritage Center buildings and grounds, Main Street, and the downtown business district.

The 82 South Main Street property was purchased thanks to a major grant from the Richard R. Hallock Foundation and a generous bequest. Extensive legal guidance involved in the transaction was generously provided pro bono by Oberlin Heritage Center Honorary Trustee David Mellott, his colleagues Nathan Felker, Kevin Margolis, and other attorneys from the Cleveland office of the business law firm Benesch, Friedlander, Coplan & Aronoff, LLP. Rental income from the building will bring much-needed additional revenue to the Heritage Center and will also help to undertake a gradual renovation of the facility. The property will remain on the tax rolls. As one Board member stated, “We are investing in Main Street.” The property is operated by a not-for-profit Limited Liability Company owned by the Oberlin Heritage Center. The LLC and the building have been named “Vineway” since it provided access from Vine Street into our site. Vineway has its own Board of Managers appointed by the Oberlin Heritage Center Board, and it is chaired by Board President Walter Edling. The site has its own part-time property manager, Michael Galbreath.

While a lot of work was done in 2010 to plan for the Heritage Center’s future, the year also brought with it a lot of good news in the “here and now.” More and more people discovered all that the Heritage Center had to offer through in-person visits, checking out the website, or by attending programs and events at our site and elsewhere in the community. Church groups, college classes, school groups, home school groups, social clubs, family reunions, Scouts, senior citizens groups, the Oberlin College Women’s Soccer team, and many others travelled to the Center from throughout the region. The Heritage Center enjoyed welcoming a special delegation of Libyan archeologists and museum professionals who were here visiting with Oberlin College archeologist Susan Kane as part of an official State Department visit. Oberlin College student intern Preston Sundin created and gave the first Chinese language tour of the Monroe House in December. Staff and volunteers also enjoyed welcoming many genealogists and historical researchers, including internationally known author and OC graduate Tracy Chevalier.
The Heritage Center has long been recognized for its outstanding educational programs both for children and for lifelong learners. Several new offerings were introduced in 2010, in addition to the presentations of many tried and true favorites. We launched a new “Radicals and Reformers History Walk” at Westwood Cemetery, adding to the extensive array of tours and history walks the Heritage Center now offers to individuals and groups. The new family-friendly “I Spy Oberlin History and Architecture Scavenger Hunt” also was well-received, and gave children and accompanying adults the opportunity to explore downtown, and learn about history, architecture and community while having fun (and maybe even spying one of Tappan Square’s legendary white squirrels!). Another new success this year was a week-long Spring Break Hands-on-History camp held at the Oberlin Depot. The Oberlin Oral History Committee also produced two highly-acclaimed programs based on interviews of local residents. Sample comments from visitors to various tours and events offered some rave reviews:

• “The tour really brought to life the rich history of Oberlin and its influence on not only Lorain County but our country as well.” (Comment from Leadership Lorain County participant, May 2010)

• “Thanks again for a wonderful tour and your incredible flexibility… The girls will remember this for the rest of their lives.” (Comment about a Freedom’s Friends History Walk, July 2010)

• “This is the most fun of the whole festival.” (Visitor comment about activities at the Heritage Center during Family Fun Fair, Aug., 2010)

• “It made me even more proud to be an Oberlin parent.” (Visitor comment about a tour during Oberlin College Parent’s Weekend, Nov. 2010)

In all, the Oberlin Heritage Center welcomed 8,996 visitors to its tours, history walks, and programs in 2010. Visitors came from 36 states, the District of Columbia and eleven foreign countries. Behind the scenes, Heritage Center staff and volunteers responded to about 30 information request calls and visits a week, providing visitor information and assistance on local history research, genealogy, historic preservation, and much more. Staff members also were frequently called upon to provide guidance to other historical organizations and small museums about all aspects of non-profit administration and museum management. Volunteers contributed 5,929 hours of service as documented on time sheets to help advance the organization’s mission (and we know there were many others contributing additional hours they preferred not to document and turn in for record-keeping).

Ohio Humanities Council summer intern Rachel Luczkowski, an Oberlin College student and Oberlin High School graduate, created a new online virtual exhibit on our website, called “Then and Now,” which featured Oberlin’s buildings and changing architectural landscape. The exhibit, which remains a work-in-progress, compared buildings from past and present and drew from many different materials and sources including Oberlin College Hi-O-Hi Yearbooks, college catalogues, city directories, sketches, photos, postcards, and paintings. The focus for this particular exhibit was on college dormitories, boarding houses, and other Oberlin facilities. It built on work previously undertaken by the Heritage Center’s Collections Assistant Prue Richards. Other student interns worked on an array of projects, including refurbishing a dollhouse, researching Oberlin buildings, processing and cataloguing artifacts, giving tours, and much more. Numerous individuals and businesses contributed photographs, scrapbooks, yearbooks, and artifacts which help to document and tell the stories of our community.

Assistant to the Director Mary Anne Cunningham and the Oberlin Heritage Center’s Membership Committee worked tremendously hard in 2010 to keep our membership numbers steady in the wake of the nation’s economic downturn. After reaching an all-time high of 752 memberships in the spring, it was a bit of a roller-coaster ride the rest of the year with dips and turns and ups and downs in the numbers. The organization finished the year with 731 total memberships, including 76 Endowed Life members, 553 individuals and households, 80 businesses and 22 organizations. Despite a drop from previous years, we still welcomed 62 newcomers to the organization in 2010, and were grateful to another 65 who increased their membership contributions during the year. Members ranged in age from babies to centenarians, represented all walks of life, and hailed from 31 states and one foreign country. The diversity and vibrancy of the Oberlin Heritage Center’s membership were key factors in the continued strength of the organization. If you are not yet a member of the organization, we invite you to become one by joining online at www.oberlinheritage.org or returning the membership application enclosed on page 23. Your support is always needed and appreciated!

Another highlight of 2010 was the well-deserved recognition of immediate past president James W. White as the recipient of the Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums/Oho Local History Alliance’s Outstanding Individual Achievement Award in October. Several Board and staff members travelled to Columbus for the ceremony. There, we first met the Heritage Center’s Ohio History Corps/AmeriCorps worker Karyn Norwood who will be based at the Monroe House until August 2011 coordinating local and regional initiatives throughout Northeast Ohio to plan commemorations of the 150th anniversary of the Civil War.

The Heritage Center’s superb team of board, staff, interns, volunteers and members accomplished far more than one would expect from such a small organization, both administratively- and budget-wise. Careful planning keeps the organization moving forward while maintaining the highest museum standards. Your support is always wisely invested to get the maximum return. A look through the rest of this Annual Report will underscore that by working together we can do many good things to preserve and share Oberlin’s unique history and make our community a better place to live, learn, work and visit. Your interest and involvement mean so much to this organization and we are tremendously grateful for all that you did to make 2010 another wonderful year for the Oberlin Heritage Center!

Treasurer’s Report

As the Treasurer and also the chairperson of the Strategic Planning Committee I have had many opportunities over the course of the year to review all aspects of the Heritage Center’s current funding picture and also to work with other Board members and the staff on planning a stronger future for this vital organization which serves such an important purpose in our community. In these challenging economic times it is increasingly apparent that the Heritage Center must expand its base of support, find new funding sources, and build its endowments as grant opportunities become scarcer. We have begun to do that in several important ways.

First, thanks to a generous grant from the Richard R. Hallock Foundation and a bequest from a long-time member and lifelong Oberlin resident, the Heritage Center was able to purchase the Vineway property at 82-86 S. Main Street which is adjacent to our grounds. This property provides important access and parking for the Heritage Center. The three tenants (The Bridge, Lupita’s, and The Mandarin) provide much needed revenue which is being used to improve the building, establish a contingency fund, and also to provide operating support to the Heritage Center (about $16,000 in 2010). The Vineway Limited Liability Corporation is owned by the Heritage Center and governed by its own board, with its own part-time property manager. It is both an important investment in Main Street and a new revenue stream.

Second, as part of our strategic planning, we developed an increasing awareness of the importance of endowment to support ongoing operations. We have begun work on the second phase of the Endowment for History Education campaign to raise an additional $400,000 to fully fund the Museum Education and Tour Coordinator staff position. We plan to accomplish this both through gifts of cash and also by encouraging our supporters to consider making a provision for the Heritage Center in their estate plans. Please lend your support.

This year’s financial statement differs from last year’s because the purchase of the Vineway Property has increased both our income and our expenses. However, apart from Vineway, our expenses for 2010 were actually less than in 2009. Another change that is reflected in the 2010 balance sheet is that in accordance with museum best practices as recommended by the American Association for State and Local History and in keeping with FASB 116 (Financial Accounting Standards Board) statement on the subject, the Board decided to no longer capitalize any of the collections which includes the historic sites (the Monroe House, Jewett House, and Schoolhouse). All other properties remain on the books, including the Vineway property and the three residential rental properties overseen by OHC Properties, Inc. This change does not have any impact on property taxes. The 2010 audit by Cohen and Company again yielded a clean, unqualified opinion, with no significant adverse findings. The full audit and IRS form 990 are available upon request.

Our amazing staff is to be commended for their diligence and perseverance in maintaining quality programming and services within the limits of a very, very tight operating budget. I am very grateful for the exceptional service of our financial assistant Pat Holsworth, and also thank all the members of the Finance Committee. We are concerned that operating within such a tight budget allows very little to be spent on maintaining and preserving our historic buildings, though in that arena and so many others we are very fortunate for the hard work of many community volunteers and local businesses who provide in-kind and discounted services.

The Oberlin Heritage Center Board, staff and volunteers are very grateful for the support received from the community, members, foundations, businesses and organizations to help accomplish its mission. It is vitally important to our continued success. Thank you.

Recently refurbished Monroe House parlor.

Oberlin Heritage Center Collections Committee members Paul Arnold, Scott Broadwell, Rob Calhoun, Bert Latran, Louise Richards, Dina Schoonmaker, Jim Underwood, and Anne Wardwell have logged many volunteer hours on this project, as have Prue and Pete Richards, and Deloris Bohn. Doren Harley (Woodreams) designed and crafted the wood chair rail to match the molding profile on the 1880s wood mantle in the room. Scott Broadwell (Broadwell Painting) contributed many hours in painting and wallpapering as did Tim Cowling (Creative Carpentry) who installed the picture rail and chair rail and helped with the wallpapering.

Through almost magically well-timed good luck, the Oberlin Heritage Center received at this same time, several of the original handsome dark blue fireplace surround tiles which Julia added in 1885 along with the present mantle. The Oberlin Heritage Center had Julia’s blue tiles reproduced in a limited edition by Starbuck Goldner in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania which specializes in museum quality handcrafted reproduction tiles. Tim Cowling and Tim Dobbins removed the modern fire place surround tiles and hearth that was put in c. 1980 and installed the reproductions. Tiles installed and ladders and drop cloths removed, several pieces remained to be added to make the parlor the elegant room it once was. A wonderful carpet was added through the generosity of Darlene Krato, with the padding, delivery and installation donated by Smith Furnishings and Floor Coverings. And volumes of blue velveteen portieres donated by Erik and Michele Andrews, were decorated by Collections Assistant Prue Richards to be appropriate for the now almost complete 1880s décor. The Monroe Parlor has become a lovely room in which Julia might feel quite at home!

Also in the “it was meant to be” category, the Oberlin Heritage Center recently was given a previously unknown portrait of the town’s first settler, Peter Pindar Pease, painted in 1842 by his nephew Hiram Alonzo Pease. It was donated to the Heritage Center by the great-great-granddaughter of Peter, Susan Pease Morgenthaler of Yuma, Arizona.

The painting required extensive conservation work before it could be hung in the Monroe House where it now helps tell the early history of our community. This work was done by McKay Lodge Fine Arts Conservation Laboratory of Oberlin. Stop in and visit the Monroe Parlor and also take a look at Peter Pindar Pease, as you have never seen him before!

VOLUNTEERS

The Oberlin Heritage Center’s amazing team of multitalented volunteers includes individuals, families and groups of all ages who perform an array of tasks including giving tours, staffing events, serving on committees, and hosting parents of incoming first year college students as bed and breakfast guests with the proceeds to benefit the Oberlin Heritage Center. Others presented programs, took part in strategic planning session and assisted in assessing current educational programs. This list excludes all Board members; their names are listed on page 10. It includes those staff members and paid student interns who volunteered hours beyond those for which they were paid.
