This house is an example of a Craftsman/Arts & Crafts Front Dormer Bungalow. The main elevation includes a full, recessed porch with wide, square columns on top of a wall of rock-faced stone. Three three-over-one windows are in the shed dormer, with vertical muntins in the upper sashes. The door has lights in the upper portion and molded wood panels below. Three windows are situated to the right of the door. The center window is five-over-one, continued. This house was built between 1922-27 and Manley C. Frank is the first known owner of this house (City Directory, Sanborn Maps). Manley was a salesman who lived here from 1927-37 with his wife, Susie M. and Emma L. Frank, presumably a relative (City Directory). Emma graduated from Oberlin College in 1927, earned a degree in Library Science, worked in Oberlin’s Carnegie Library, and later worked in the library for the School of Theology (Alumni Register). Frank E. Craig lived here from 1940 until continued...

42. Further Description of Important Interior and Exterior Features (Con't)

flanked by three-over-one windows, all with vertical muntins in the upper sashes. At the left and near the center of the west elevation are square windows with vertical muntins that create three lights. Pairs of four-over-one windows are to the far right, also with vertical muntins. The second story has a pair of three-over-one windows near the center with square windows to the left and right, each with three lights. Knee braces are visible below the eaves of the gable. The east elevation includes a door near the center that has lights in its upper half and molded wood panels below. A four-over-one window with vertical muntins is located to the left and a square window with four vertical lights is to the right. Two three-over-one windows are in the second story.

43. History and Significance (Con’t)

at least 1944 with his wife Kathleen (City Directory). Frank worked as a diesel engineer and as the superintendent of the Municipal Light and Power (City Directory). From 1956-70, Helen S. and Fred J. Morgan lived here while Fred worked as a laboratory custodian in the Chemistry department at Oberlin College (City Directory, Alumni Register). In 1971, Nelson Lynn de Jesus, an Associate Professor in the Department of French and Italian, bought the house (Property Card, Oberlin College).
