This house is a good example of Oberlin's austerity, even during the Gilded Age. It has a screened-in porch that covers the south side of its front façade and wraps around to partially cover the south side of the house. The door to the porch is on the north end, at the top of a stoop decorated with an ornate wrought-iron railing. The front door of the house is on the façade, shaded by the porch. The windows have shaped wooden lintels, the chimney tapers above the first floor, and the cornice is decorated with exposed rafters. The large gable end that faces the street is decorated with shingle siding above the second floor. Behind the porch, the south side of the house has a rectangular bay window on the first floor, and there is a two-story hip-roofed wing at the back of the house.

Immigration - England

43. History and Significance
Laborer Henry S. and Adaline Dye lived here in 1896 with their daughter Marion before moving to N. Main St. the next year. In 1897, Mrs. F. A. Moulton lived here with her sons Donnie and Retto. Thomas and K. Emily Drage immigrated to the U.S. from England in 1888, and lived in 24 N. Park in 1899 and 1900 with their five children: Louisa, David, Edwin, Perry, and Dorothy. The house had many residents in the first decades of the 20th century, including Mrs. Emily Fields and Mrs. Mary Brice. E. A. Stevens lived here from 1927 through 1942, and Frances Stevens stayed through 1961.

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings (see #52)
A driveway on the north side of the house leads to a hip-roofed garage in the back yard.
