This one story contemporary home exemplifies the ranch style. The house contains a low-pitched gabled roof, which creates eaves that project especially on the front elevation. The entrance to the house is located on the gabled end that faces the street. The front facade contains four large picture windows, which have windows above them that slope with the roof and the front door is situated to the left of the windows. The house is in good condition and is surrounded by other maintained homes.

The first house on this property was built sometime before 1894 & was probably demolished between 1910 & 1916. Rev. Adam Nunn & his wife Melinda continued to live here after Adam's death in 1901 (Bigglestone 161, City Directory). The Lorain County Auditor's Property Card indicates that the current structure was built in 1960.

The house is located on N. Professor St. and is the seventh house from the intersection of N. Professor and Union Streets. A garage is not located on the property, however a small shed is located on the north side of the house. The non-historic shed is small, contains vertical wood siding and is most likely used for storage. The house is in good condition and is surrounded by other maintained homes.

42. Further Description of Important Interior and Exterior Features (Con't)

Veneer finish in a stretcher bond pattern. The brick begins on the front elevation under the windows and continues to the left as it wraps around the entire north side. The south elevation appears to be finished with vinyl siding, however foliage obstructs the view. Exposed rafters Beams are located under the roof at the peak and the edges. There are several windows on the north elevation that appear to be either awning or hopper windows. A door is also located on the north facade. Several metal flues are located in the roof.

43. History and Significance (Con't)

1960 but it does not appear in the 1961 Oberlin City Directory. Its first listing is instead in the 1970 directory with the occupants listed as John Favor, an agent for Prudential Insurance, his wife Ann, & their two children, as well as Ronald L & Mary D McKinney & their two children, & Catherine Cannon & her husband John, who was in the Air Force. The McKinneys stayed through at least 1973 but the other residents had already left by then (City Directory, O-High Alumni).
