The façade of this house is reminiscent of an A.J. Downing Gothic cottage. The gabled roof runs parallel to the street, and at the center of the side facing the street there is a steeply-gabled wall dormer decorated by carved brackets where it meets the house, and the front door has sidelights. A two-story gabled portion projects from the south side of the back of the house, and there are two one-story segments on the back of the north side of the house.

The house is surrounded by thick foliage, and the stone steps of its front walk extend out to the sidewalk. A driveway on the north side of the house leads to the backyard.

Joseph and Elizabeth Slack immigrated to the United States from England in 1890, and lived here at 92 Spring St. from 1891 through 1938. They had four children: Ethel, Margery, Joseph, and Lucy May. Joseph worked as a stone cutter in a quarry, and died in 1942, and Lucy May was a registered nurse while she lived with her parents at 92 Spring (Holsworth). Theodore Van Ausdale lived here from 1939 through 1961 (City Directories).
